Cabinet Care Guide

Choose your cleaning cloths wisely

To clean cabinets, the best choice is soft cloths that are lint-free. Great types of cloths to use are soft cotton fabrics such as cheesecloth or chamois. An old t-shirt also works.

Avoid abrasive cleaning solvents

When cleaning your cabinets, use natural products that won't scratch the cabinet finish or leave sticky residues. Avoid using any cleaning products that contain ammonia.

Use a mild detergent

You can make your own cabinet cleaning soap easily with ingredients you already have at home. Mix 2 tablespoons of dish soap into 2 cups of warm water.

Use baking soda for difficult stains

For tough stains, some water spots respond to white toothpaste or baking soda. Use a non-abrasive wet sponge to clean the cabinet surface.

Limit exposure to moisture

Avoid hanging wet dishcloths or towels over cabinets or cabinet doors, since long exposure to water will damage the finish and may leave stains.

Don't overlook cabinet tops

One part of the cabinetry that is sometimes overlooked is the tops of cabinets, which do collect dust. Although cabinet tops do not need cleaning as often as the front surfaces, they should be cleaned regularly.

Avoid commercial waxes or sprays

Use commercial furniture waxes, sprays, and polishes sparingly on kitchen cabinets. Spray polishes often contain silicone, which does form a shine, but can also create a barrier over the wood. This barrier makes touch ups or refinishing impossible.

Product Disclaimers

Painted Finish Disclaimer

---

Please note that on all painted products "Joint Splits" are unavoidable. We engineer our doors to minimize splits using MDF center panels. Wood naturally expands and contracts with seasonal changes in temperature and humidity. These Joint Splits on doors up to 1/16" are not considered a defect.

Glazed Finishes

All glazed finishes are applied by hand and are designed to have an uneven effect. This glazing process leaves glaze or hang up to collect on different areas of the door or drawer front. This can lead to various doors looking different and is not considered a defect.

Warped Doors

All wood doors expand and contract over time, therefore a small amount of warping can be expected. Wood can return to its original form after acclimating to the environment of your home. Doors warped up to 1/4" are not considered to be a defect.

Color and Grain Variances

Wood is a natural product and stained cabinets may vary in color, texture and grain. Varied shading in cabinetry stains are to be expected and are not considered to be a defect
